The History of Henry Sibley & His Site NEW

Jessica Davis

Henry Hastings Sibley is a very well-known persona in Minnesota history. He arrived in St. Peter (now Mendota) and built the first stone building in the state as he made a name for himself in the fur trade. Sibley went on to become Minnesota's first governor and the person who was appointed to stop the uprising that led to the U.S.-Dakota War of 1862. The Sibley name lives on in our history, including the Sibley Historic Site. Covers the life of Henry Sibley and describes how the site carries on his name. Optional: Tour the estate,

1629 Vermillion St, Hastings, prior to class at 5:30 pm for an add'l $10.
